Apart from that, sight deposits and callable deposits may also be held. Shares in other investment funds, bonds and money market instruments may not be acquired.

- Risk vs return is based on past performance and is not a reliable indicator of future performance.
- Category 1 classification does not mean that the investment is risk-free.
- Category 6 classification is based on historic fluctuations in the fund price.
- Risk classifications are not a target or guarantee and may change over time.

The risk classification of the fund may not take account of all risks. The prospectus contains a detailed description of all potential risks. The following risks do not impact directly on this classification, but may nonetheless be relevant to the fund:

- Counterparty risks:
The fund may conduct transactions with various counterparties. If a counterparty goes bankrupt, they may be unable to satisfy the fund's outstanding claims or to satisfy them in full.
- Credit risks:
The fund may invest some of its assets in bonds or money market instruments or sight deposits. If the issuer or the counterparty to the position goes bankrupt, the position may lose all or part of its value.
- Liquidity risks:
There is a risk that a position cannot be sold in time at a reasonable price. This risk may also lead to a suspension of unit certificate redemptions.
- Derivative risks:
The fund only uses derivatives for the purpose stated above under "investment policy". Although they may offer the chance of a greater return, there is also a greater risk of loss. Using derivatives for hedging purposes may also reduce the chances of making a return on the fund.
- Operational risks:
The fund may be the victim of fraud or other criminal activity. It may sustain losses as a result of misunderstanding or error by management company staff or external third parties or suffer the impact of extreme events (i.e. a natural catastrophe).
- Sustainability risks:
Risks in the area of ESG factors (Environment, Social, Governance) are events whose occurrence could have a significant negative impact on the performance of a fund investment. As these do not represent a specific type of risk, they are usually manifested in other types of risk (e.g. credit risk, etc.).
- Depository risks:
Assets held by a depository may be at risk of loss due to bankruptcy, negligence or misconduct on the part of the depository or a sub-depository.
